The VIII-th Symposium on Surface Physics (SSP8) to be held in Třešť Castle follows previous international surface science meetings: Smolenice (1971 and 1984), Bechyně (1980 and 1987), Chlum (1990 and 1993) and Třešť (1996).

SIZE AND SCOPE

The size, form and scope of the symposium should be similar to those of previous meetings, with around 20 invited speakers and up to 100 participants. At this meeting crystallographic and electron structure aspects of surface physics will be emphasized. Short communication and poster sessions will also be held.

VENUE, DATES, TRAVEL

The Symposium will take place at the Třešť Castle, Czech Republic, 150 km east of Praha, near Jihlava. The Symposium lectures start by the opening address on Monday, June 28, 1999. The symposium ends on Friday afternoon, July 2.

PROCEEDINGS

Invited lectures will be published in a special issue of the Progress in Surface Science and selected contributed papers in a special issue of the Czechoslovak Journal of Physics.

REGISTRATION FEE

The Symposium fee, including full board and accommodation, will be about US$ 360.
