

Philosophical Institute of the Czech Academy of Sciences

Department for the Philosophy of Language and Philosophy of Science

The Notion of Interpretation in Philosophy and Literary Theory

Praha, Villa Lanna
December 4-5, 2000

December 4 (Monday)

10 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Ladislav Tondl (Praha): Message Acceptance and Rational Belief
Anthony Grayling (London): Transferring Senses: Identification and Predication in Interpretation
Peter Pagin (Stockholm): When Does Communication Succeed?

2 p.m. - 6 p.m.

Barry Smith (London): Speakers and Interpreters: the Psychology and Epistemology of Understanding Kathrin Glüer (Berlin): How Much Interpretation for Communication? The Case from Autism
Folke Tersman (Stockholm): Attributing Moral Judgements
Björn Ramberg (Oslo): Trying to Have a Conversation: on Rorty and Gadamer and Reason

December 5 (Tuesday)

10 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Staffan Carlshamre (Stockholm): Types of Literary Interpretation
Göran Rossholm (Stockholm): Fictionality
Paisley Livingston (København): Pentimento: a Problem for Hypothetical Intentionalism

2 p.m. - 5 p.m.

Július Gajdoš (Brno): Towards Interpretation and Desinterpretation
Petr Kořátko (Praha): The (ir)Relevance of the Author's Intentions in the Interpretation of a Literary Work
Martin Pokorný (Praha): Interpretation of Literature: Some Basic Issues