

Change of Page Charge

As an Open Access Journal, Physiological Research allows its articles to be free to read and download* and makes research output immediately available. A publication cost is payable by the authors or their institution.

The Editors and the Editorial Board of Physiological Research have therefore decided to increase the page charge to 90 EUR per printed page for each article except of review articles which will be charged 45 EUR per printed page only. Pages containing color figures will be charged additional 35 EUR. The new page charges will be required since May 1, 2019.

*NOTE: Download and re-use is only applicable for non-commercial purposes. Sell or re-use for commercial purposes is not allowed.
