

Acid Catalysis for Asymmetric Synthesis

Hisashi Yamamoto

*Department of Chemistry, The University of Chicago,
5735 South Ellis Avenue, Chicago, IL 60637, USA
Email: yamamoto@uchicago.edu*

New reagents and catalysts have unlimited potential for the future of organic synthesis. We have been interested in Lewis and Brønsted acid catalysis for a number of years. In this lecture, I am going to focus on several of these acid and related catalysts from the molecular design and engineering.