

Thursday, 21st May 2009, 15.00

IN THE MILAN HAŠEK AUDITORIUM
(IMG AS CR, Vídeňská 1083, Prague 4)

Professor Solomon H. Snyder, M.D.

Distinguished Service Professor of Neuroscience,
Pharmacology and Psychiatry,
Johns Hopkins Medical School
Baltimore, MD

"Novel Neural Molecules and Huntington's Disease".

Professor Snyder is a prominent world leader in the field of neurophysiology and neuropharmacology, member of the National Academy of the US, was awarded many prestigious prizes and medals, and the absolutely most cited biomedical researcher (in total over 150.000 citations, h-index = 201); for more details (in Czech) see:

<http://www.img.cas.cz/seminars/2009/Snyder-detail.pdf>

This honorary lecture is organized jointly by the 1st Faculty of Medicine, Charles University, Czech Medical Academy, Institute of Experimental Medicine AS CR and Institute of Molecular Genetics AS CR.

Before the lecture, Professor Snyder will be awarded the honorary membership of the Czech Medical Academy.