

Forum Urbes Medii Aevi XVII

will take place in Brno on 18th-19th June 2019

Conference topic:

Large-scale excavations of medieval and modern-day sites: Results, methods and processing of archaeological finds from towns, villages and castles

The aim of this year's conference is to incite a wider discussion about the results and processing of finds from large-scale excavations of medieval sites, which were mostly conducted in towns during the past few decades. The processing state in most of them is unsatisfactory, so it is still necessary to search for ways to their meaningful utilization and to try to identify the obstacles which archaeologists encounter in this work. The methodical level will be one of the partial conference topics. It will undoubtedly be interesting to find out, how individual institutions approach the processing of excavation results and which publishing outputs they produce in this regard. We cordially welcome all contributions addressing the significance of these excavations and their impact on the increase in knowledge about history of Central Europe.

Instructions for participants:

- Duration of individual lectures shall be 30 minutes at the most
- Discussion will be held after each block of lectures
- All lecturers will have the possibility to present posters
- Available conference equipment: data projector, slide projector, overhead projector (in case of other requirements, please let us know in advance)
- Conference languages: German, English, Czech, Slovak
- Social evening
- Afternoon excursion
- The paper is to be submitted by 15th May 2019 at the latest
- All information will be continuously updated on our website <http://www.archaiabrno.org/>
- By 31 May 2019, all registered participants will obtain detailed guidelines and current program

Contact address:

David Merta
Archaia Brno z. ú.
Bezručova 78/15, 602 00 BRNO
phone: +420 777 239 989;
e-mail: dmerta@archaiabrno.cz