
Summary

EXCERPTS FROM CLEMENT OF ALEXANDRIA IN CODEX ATHOS LAVRA B 113: A CONTRIBUTION TO TEXTUAL CRITICISM

The article deals with excerpts from Clement of Alexandria in the gospel catenae from codex Athos Lavra B 113 (including anonymous and misattributed excerpts). It critically reviews the literature on the subject, verifies it against the manuscript and discusses partial omissions and inaccuracies. Finally, one excerpt from Clement (allegedly in fol. 40^v) is discussed in detail and it is suggested that the information about the excerpt originates from confusion with other codices.

Keywords: Clement of Alexandria; Gospel Catenae; Biblical Exegesis; Textual Criticism.

VÍT HUŠEK

Palacký University Olomouc

Sts Cyril and Methodius Faculty of Theology

Centre for Patristic, Medieval and Renaissance Texts

Univerzitní 22, 771 11 Olomouc, Czech Republic

vit.husek@upol.cz