

Guest Editors Introductory Words

In February 2019, members of the Czech and Slovak Physiological Societies by tradition participated in their annual conference. The 95th Physiological days took place at the 3rd Faculty of Medicine, Charles University in Prague. In the meeting, numerous scientists from various departments and research fields participated.

Through the conference, stimulating lectures were held, usually followed by fruitful scientific discussion. Based on the selected presentations, this Supplementum of the Physiological Research journal has been compiled, which consists of three review articles and thirteen original papers. The manuscripts covers numerous scientific fields and disciplines. We wish the readers – next to interesting reading – get stimulatory ideas from the presented papers.

On behalf of the Editorial board

Marie Nováková

Jakub Otáhal

Vladimír Riljak